

Mr. Renier Diaz de la Portilla, Board Member

SUBJECT: ESTABLISHMENT OF ETIQUETTE/DEPORTMENT AS A GRADED AREA ON REPORT CARDS

COMMITTEE: INSTRUCTIONAL EXCELLENCE AND COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

Excellent social skills are a key ingredient in the achievement of individuals in any field. The new global economy has made it imperative that our graduates be able to interact, collaborate, and socialize with a multitude of diverse cultures.

Also, knowing how to navigate social conventions can ultimately give a child confidence. Good manners have benefits, children feel comfortable because they know what to do. Second, people enjoy their company because they are confident, poised, and ready to act, when opportunities present themselves.

Therefore, in response to the need of our students, Miami-Dade Public Schools will establish Etiquette/Deportment as a graded area on report cards for students K-12.

According to a Time magazine article: “ ‘Kids don’t know how to shake your hand at graduation’, says Rudolph Crew, Superintendent of the Miami-Dade school system. Deportment, he notes, used to be on the report card. Some of the nation’s more forward-thinking schools are bringing it back. It’s one part of 21st century education that sleepy old Rip would recognize.” (How to bring our schools out of the 20th century by Claudia Wallis, Sonja Steptoe, Time Magazine; December 10, 2006)
