Recently, the Juvenile Justice Educational Enhancement Program (JJEPP) honored Miami-Dade County Public Schools (M-DCPS) teacher Teresa A. Valcarcel as the 2008 Region V Juvenile Justice Teacher of the Year. A twelve-year veteran educator with M-DCPS, Ms. Valcarcel has taught language arts, reading, and science in the District's Educational Alternative Outreach Program for the past four years. She instills in her students a love and enthusiasm for learning. Her colleagues describe her as a compassionate leader who demonstrates patience, determination, and creativity in the classroom.

Ms. Valcarcel's outstanding achievements as an education professional, her impressive qualifications, and her commendable dedication to at-risk students contributed to her being distinguished as one of Florida's exceptional Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) teachers. She and other region finalists were honored in August at the Juvenile Justice Education Institute and Southern Conference on Corrections held in Tampa Bay, Florida. Five judges representing FDOE, DJJ, public schools, and the local community selected the regional winners. The primary goal of the conference is to bring together partners and stakeholders with Department of Juvenile Justice Education Programs to help strengthen existing programs, to provide relevant and timely professional development, and to facilitate access to resource development. Since 2000, the Florida Department of Education (FDOE) and the Juvenile Justice Educational Enhancement Program have sponsored the Juvenile Justice Teacher of the Year program to honor outstanding teachers in DJJ education programs.

Miami-Dade County Public Schools commends Ms. Valcarcel for her passion for teaching and her commitment to her students.
