RECOGNIZING KVP PRODUCTIONS FOR THEIR OUTSTANDING WORK IN OUR COMMUNITY

COMMITTEE: INSTRUCTIONAL EXCELLENCE AND COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

LINK TO STRATEGIC FRAMEWORK: STUDENT, PARENT, AND COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

KVP Productions is an entertainment promotions company serving Miami-Dade and Broward counties founded by former actress and theatre company director Pamela Reid, former fashion model and fashion consultant Vanette Brown, and entertainment entrepreneur Kioka Boyce with the intent to spotlight emerging visual and musical artists. Their latest venture has been to partner with nonprofit organizations that involve the arts to allow young talented artists a venue to perform. Every month KVP organizes the night that features singer Nailah Mustafa, trumpeter Anthony Harvey, and saxophonist Keya Curtis who all are students of schools in Miami-Dade County.

KVP Productions have also made it their priority to provide the students of Miami-Dade and Broward County with students with schools supplies. They have coordinated with the many organizations they partner with such as Harmonies of Hope, Hands 2 Help Inc., Dream Catchers of the Soul, and Le Chique Modeling Entertainment to raise funds and supplies during the "back to school" season. Those resources are then disseminated throughout the community and made available to students.

Miami-Dade County Public Schools has been able to capitalize on the partnerships it has fostered with the organizations within the Miami-Dade community. There have been countless examples of these groups supplementing time and resources to better the quality of education in Miami-Dade County. Therefore KVP Productions is to be commended for their contributions to our community and their role in supporting initiatives and programs that benefit the children and families of the Miami-Dade County.
